My Sister's Attic opens in Promenade

Location in Las Tiendas to remain My Sister's Closet

Despite the economy, Eco-Chic Consignments, Inc., the umbrella company for a family of high-end designer consignment concepts including My Sister's Closet, My Sister's Attic, Well Suited and Small Change, continues to expand. The company's newest store, My Sister's Attic, is now open at the Promenade at Fulton Ranch in Southern Chandler, featuring upscale home furnishings and accessories.

"We are excited to expand our presence in the Southeast Valley," says Eco-Chic Consignments, Inc. co-founder and CEO Ann Siner. "People want to be able to purchase high-end, quality items on a low budget, and we have provided the means to do so."

Siner says decreased consumer spending has not prevented Eco-Chic Consignments, Inc. from "flourishing." The company has seen more than a 20 percent increase in revenue from 2008, according to Siner, has a database of more than 67,000 consignors and continues to expand.

"Consumers are looking to spend less for quality items these days," says Siner. "We use this to our advantage and see continued growth."

Eco-Chic Consignments, Inc. will continue to grow in 2010 with two location expansions in Scottsdale slated for early 2010. Collectively, the brand has 11 locations in Arizona totaling more than 42,000 square feet of retail space.

My Sister's Closet, at Las Tiendas Village at Queen Creek and Alma School, will remain as such with an "ever-growing bridal gown section."
